Last Americans flee from Cambodia

By FREDERICK H. MARKS

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. helicopters completed the evacuation of 270 American and Cambodian civilians from Phnom Penh Saturday, little more than five years after the beginning of a massive U.S. effort to maintain a non-Communist government in Phnom Penh.

The fall of Phnom Penh to the Communist-led rebels besieging the city appeared imminent, possibly hours but at the most days away.

American officials said in Washington the evacuation of the embassy was completed today without incident.

"Not a shot was fired, and there were no injuries," one official said.

A half dozen Sea Knight helicopters from the Carr-rier Okinawa, stationed in the Gulf of Siam 70 miles from Phnom Penh, shuttled the evacuees out of the city.

President Ford issued a statement today saying he ordered the U.S. mission evacuated "in view of the seriously deteriorating military situation around the Cambodian capital."

"I decided with a heavy heart on the evacuation of American personnel from Cambodia because of my responsibility for the safety of the Americans who have served there so valiantly," Ford said. "Despite that evacuation, we will continue to do whatever possible to support an independent, peaceful, neutral and unified Cambodia."

U.S. Marines landed on the rescue helicopters from the Okinawa and set up a defense perimeter to protect the evacuation. (The State Department said U.S. fighter planes were in the Phnom Penh area and also would be used to protect the operation if necessary.)

All remaining Americans, numbering about 50 members of a skeleton embassy staff and 28 newsmen, were evacuated.

U.S. Embassy officials abruptly ordered all Americans remaining in the capital to the embassy compound early this morning for a hasty exit. Some Cambodian embassy employees and their families also were flying to safety, swelling the total number of persons involved in the airlift to several hundred.

U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean, who had been working out the operation codenamed "Eagle Pull" all night, looked haggard and drawn as armed U.S.

Marines shut and bolted the steel doors of the American mission to begin the evacuation.

The Okinawa's helicopters were used for the escape because the airport was considered unsafe under continuing rebel shellings which Friday killed an American pilot.

Ships accompanying the Okinawa carry a total of 1,800 U.S. Marines.

The evacuees were to be flown to the U Tapao air base in neighboring Thailand, the State Department said, according to previously made contingency plans.

The State Department expressed regret at having to order the evacuation, noting it had "obvious implications."

IAM complaints aired

Brown to probe 'job drain'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Brown told union workers Friday he would place on his state-owned "American-made 1974 Plymouth" an organized labor bumper sticker reading: "Imports Cause Unemployment, Buy American."

He also told delegates to the California Conference of the International Association of Machinists union he would look into their complaints that tax dollars were being spent for foreign goods and foreign labor, draining jobs from California.

Specifically, union members were critical of Rohr Industries using plants in Mexico for portions of the construction work on train cars for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

"The idea is that they subcontract to Brazil and Mexico and, in some cases, to Japan," Brown told the 250 persons at the conference. "Maybe that's the trouble with that train — one of the reasons it doesn't work."

The governor promised he would call Rohr Chairman and Chief Executive Bert Raynes and discuss the union workers' complaint.

Rohr Industries was a financial backer of Brown's election opponent Republican Houston Flanney, contributing at least $3,500 for his general election campaign.

A spokesman for the Chula Vista firm said "only a small part...we estimate about two per cent" of the work on the 450 BART cars was done in Rohr's plants in Mexicali and Tijuana. He said the company also subcontracted to a Brazilian firm for seat handles and some BART seats.

Work in Japan was not done on BART trains. But the bodies of San Francisco streetcars have been built in Japan under a contract with the Boeing Corp.

Brown's comments were greeted enthusiastically by the union members.

The governor also promised he would "talk" with his newly appointed Highway Patrol director, Glendon Craig, about the machinists' complaint that the state had ordered a shipment of Japanese-made Honda motorcycles.

A spokesman for the patrol said the order was for 137 Kawasaki's, not Honda's, and delivery was expected to begin next week. Kawasaki had submitted a low bid of $2,534 per motorcycle, the spokesman said.

As he left the Cosmopolitan Hotel where the conference was being held, Brown accepted the union bumper sticker and told the machinists, "I'll put this on my American-made 1974 Plymouth."

HEAVY fighting continued late Friday around Xuan Loc, a keystone in the Saigon defense line.

Communist forces overran a militia battalion five miles east of Xuan Loc in a tank-led attack, field reports said.

Government defenders fought North Vietnamese troops at the edge of the city Friday night, and other tank-led Communist forces attacked South Vietnamese infantry and rangers just outside the shell-flattened city, field reports said.

South Vietnamese warplanes Friday flew 70 air strikes in and around Xuan Loc in an effort to save the city and prevent a government defeat, which could be disastrous to morale.

The paratroopers, taken from their Saigon base

camp and lifted to embattled Xuan Loc province capital by American helicopters, suffered 10

wounded in a mortar barrage only hours after they landed at the edge of the city, 38 miles northeast of Saigon, the sources said.

Another 12 jet fighter-bombers attacked a

Communist tank column

near besieged Phan Rang airfield, 165 miles northeast of Saigon.

Military sources said

the Friday night fighting knocked out 21 North Vietnamese armored vehicles.

Other heavy battles were reported under way

at Ben Thanh district capital, 30 miles southwest of Saigon, and at Phan Thiet,

100 miles east of the capital.

But the battle for Xuan

Loc could be the the decisive one of the war.

The operation was seen as a major gamble by government commanders to obtain a badly needed and morale boosting victory.

By moving more than 3,000 elite troops out of

Saigon, the Joint General

Staff stripped the capital of half its regular defense force and left 4,000 soldiers manning the inner defenses of Saigon.

The paratroopers flew over Communist lines

aboard nearly 50 helicopters, including six big

twin-rotor CH-47 Chinooks which flew through heavy antiaircraft fire to the western edge of Xuan Loc.

South Vietnamese mili-

ary spokesmen here said nearly 1,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops had been killed in two days of fighting in the Xuan Loc sector. They listed government casualties as 17 dead and 110

wounded.

A HANOI Radio broadcast Friday claimed a Communist victory at

Xuan Loc and said government forces were on the run. But field reports said heavy fighting was still under way at dark.

Layoff aid for thousands ends

By RICHARD HUGHES

UPI Business Writer

A unique fund to cushion the impact of layoffs ran out Friday for thousands of idled auto workers at one company and was nearly exhausted at another.

The fund that has been a windfall for 300,000 auto workers thrown out of work in the recession was depleted at Chrysler Corp. when the company put $3 million in checks in the mail for 40,000 eligible workers.

As the Supplementary Unemployment Benefits program ran dry at Chrysler, General Motors, the nation's largest, said its supplementary benefits treasury will be exhausted by the end of the month.

eliminating payments for 70,000 eligible workers.

The supplementary funds at Ford Motor Co. and American Motors still are sound, officials said.

Under the program, negotiated in wage contracts

by the United Auto Workers in 1955 by the late Walter P. Reuther, the auto workers supplement the state unemployment benefits of idled workers to guarantee a weekly income of 95 per cent of regular take-home pay.

But the UAW and auto companies say it was designed to cover brief

high unemployment, not the lengthy downturn that idled nearly 300,000 workers before and after Christmas.

Chrysler workers have drawn $80 million from the SUB fund since last Dec. 1. Since Jan. 1, 1974, GM has paid more than $356 million and its payouts have been averaging $10 million a week in recent months.

In an bright note for the auto industry, the nation's automakers planned to produce cars and trucks at near capacity next week, recalling several thousand workers on temporary layoffs. "They usually try to make do with their existing workforce until they are certain that the pickup is for real," Kellner said. "At the same time, they are looking to keep their operations as trim and efficient as possible to make up for past profit declines." This will produce a doubling of productivity once the upturn begins, he said.

Economists at First National City bank said that while "there's no question the economy is in the midst of a recessionary plunge," a recovery would begin late this year.

On Wall Street, the Dow Jones industrial index of New York Stock Exchange prices gained 8.21 points to reach a high point for the year of 789.50. It also is the highest since last Aug. 7 when the market rose to 797.56 on reports that Richard M. Nixon would resign as president.

$50 checks due for mailing soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced Friday it will begin mailing out $50 checks early next month to Social Security recipients under the tax cut law signed by President Ford last month.

Hundreds flee flooding river

Combined News Services

Floodwaters spawned by 17-inch rains Friday drove hundreds of families from their homes in southern Alabama and northwest Florida, killed at least one person and caused extensive losses of livestock and newly planted crops. Officials in both south Alabama and the Florida peninsula said the floods were the worst in nearly 50 years. The rushing red floodwaters of the Choctawhatchee River, rising toward what was expected to be the highest crest since 1929, strained against a 45-foot levee protecting the business district of Geneva, Ala., and at one point the mayor was considering ordering the entire population of 4,000 to flee. The Choctawhatchee drove hundreds of families from Florida homes. Tornadoes swept north Florida, felling trees and power lines and damaging homes and other buildings in three counties.

Schools broke, shut down

EAST HAVEN, Conn. — Taxpayer attempts to restrain government spending boomeranged Friday when the financially pressed school board closed schools. The town immediately asked for a court injunction to keep classes open for 5,700 pupils. But the mayor estimated they would be closed at least until the middle of next week. The board acted Thursday night after the town finance board rejected an emergency request for $330,000 to operate schools until the end of the year. Under the town charter, members of the board are personally liable for any overspending, a clause written into the charter last year. The $6.5 million school budget is 10 per cent of the town budget.

Clemency center closes

INDIANAPOLIS — The Joint Clemency Processing Center at Ft. Benjamin Harrison went out of business Friday after processing 5,492 military deserters, officials said. A spokesman at the Indianapolis facility said the final 12 persons to apply for the conditional amnesty program before the April 1 deadline were processed Thursday. The center opened in mid-September after President Ford announced a conditional amnesty program for Vietnam era deserters and draft evaders. A military spokesman said 12,500 deserters and 4,500 draft evaders were eligible for the program.

Tight budget proposal

WASHINGTON — The Senate Budget Committee recommended a federal budget to Congress Friday which would exceed President Ford's spending proposals by only 2.6 per cent. The Senate panel proposed spending $365 billion in the fiscal year which begins July 1, $9.4 billion more than Ford proposed and $3.2 billion less than a budget recommended to Congress by the House Budget Committee. Both congressional committees, however, proposed cutting several billion dollars from Ford's proposed defense and military foreign aid budgets, and spending more than Ford proposed on public service jobs, education, manpower training, food stamps and Social Security benefits. The Senate panel also earmarked $1.8 billion for rehabilitating the nation's rail roadbeds.

INTERNATIONAL

Portugal parties yield to military

LISBON — Six major Portuguese political parties Friday formally signed away almost all their power to fashion a constitution for a democratic Portugal and accommodated themselves to several years of tight military rule. While the 28 officers of the governing High Council of the Revolution witnessed "the historic act" under the crystal chandeliers of the presidential palace, the political leaders put their signatures to a pact with the armed forces setting the essential terms of a constitution that will leave basic power to the military for at least three to five years. Two weeks from now the country will vote for a constituent assembly which, while sovereignty has been limited and its capacity for opposition largely neutralized in advance. President Francisco da Costa Gomes explained the reasons for these limitations as the need to defend the revolution against reactionaries and left-wing extremists and as the lack of political preparation of the Portuguese people.

Uranium suspension protest

BRUSSELS — The Common Market protested to the United States Friday that suspension of shipments of U.S. enriched uranium for European reactors endangered research programs. The nine-nation market's energy commissioner, Henri Simonet, presented a strong protest note to U.S. Ambassador Joseph Greenwald. The note accused the U.S. of blocking supplies unilaterally and endangering European research programs at a time when Europe is trying to reduce its dependence on oil as a source of energy.

Energy talks compromise

PARIS — The preparatory meeting for an international energy conference moved toward a compromise agenda Friday after concessions from both oil producers and consumers, sources said. The compromise would reconcile the insistence by industrialized countries that the conference be limited to oil with demands by oil producers and developing countries that the agenda include other raw materials, development and sharing of technology. The question of whether the full conference was to discuss raw materials as well as oil has preoccupied the meeting since it began Monday. The U.S. and other industrialized countries have publicly insisted that raw materials could be dealt with in other forums.

Worker controls eased

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia — With a growing labor shortage threatening its big development program, Saudi Arabia is making it easier for foreign workers to enter the country. The conservative monarchy, concerned about the possibility of Communist infiltration or labor agitation, had been requiring employers until now to apply for visas by name for foreign workers, who usually come from Arab nations or other friendly countries. Under a new system described in the press, employers now will submit visa applications to the interior minister giving only the number of workers needed. Time-consuming security checks will be waived.

Young Getty, in debt, gets financial guardian

Combined News Services

J. Paul Getty III, 18, grandson of the man reputed to be the world's richest, turned over handling of his meager finances to his other grandfather Friday because he is so naive in money affairs he can't keep a checkbook straight.

A Los Angeles County court granted a motion naming George B. Harris, the maternal grandfather and himself a federal judge in Northern California, as young Getty's financial guardian.

The young man, who was kidnapped in Italy and ransomed for $2.2 million a little over two years ago, appeared in court briefly but said nothing except to give his name.

Getty wore a shabby tweed jacket, a wrinkled blue cotton shirt with no tie and denim trousers. His tangled red hair fell far below his shoulders and covered the side of his head where his abductors cut off an ear and sent it to his mother to enforce their ransom demand.

His attorney, James M. MacInnes, told Judge David Eagleton in Los Angeles that Getty had an income of only $1,000 a month, but that he had become involved in "imprudent" deals including leasing a house for $550 a month and making purchases until he was about $4,000 in debt.

Also in court were Harris, a stately gray-haired man; Getty's mother, Gail, and his young German-born wife, Martine. Getty and Martine have an infant son, 2 months old.

Getty is now a student at Loyola University in Los Angeles.

After the hearing, MacInnes told newsmen that Getty has absolutely no grasp of handling money.

Getty brushed off reporters in the corridor but finally sat down in the courthouse press room to hold an interview which must have been one of the briefest on record.

Why was he turning over his affairs to his maternal grandfather?

"It would just be better."

Did he agree to the arrangement?

"If I didn't I wouldn't have been here."

Then he got up and walked out with his wife who never said a word.

On the way out, another newsmen commented on the difference between young Getty's financial affairs and his grandfather's.

"Yeah, I'm 18 now and maybe by the time I'm 84 I'll have his business acumen," Getty snapped.

Rowdy

A Soviet nuclear scientist abruptly returned to Russia after being hauled to jail when he was allegedly disturbing his neighbors while drunk. It was disclosed Friday in Berkeley.

Police said they were called to the apartment house where Victor Nikolaevech Panfilov lived on March 30 by his neighbors who were complaining that, under the influence of vodka, the Russian had become boisterous.

Panfilov was vice director of research for a Soviet nuclear facility, when he came to Berkeley in an exchange program.

Officers sent Panfilov back to his own apartment and told him to sleep it off. But shortly thereafter the Russian allegedly tried to kick a hole in the wall of a neighbor. Police were called again and took him to the jail.

No charges were filed and Panfilov was released after sobering up.

Within hours, it was reported, two men arrived at the scientist's apartment. He hastily packed and left with them.

Upset

The assignment of Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz as U.S. representative to the funeral of Chiang Kai-shek was criticized Friday by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as "shabby treatment of a former ally."

Not amused

City commissioners in the affluent central Florida community of Winter Park weren't amused when a nude portrait of a 250-pound woman construction worker won the $1,000 top prize in the city's art show.

Rather than hang the painting in City Hall as tradition dictates, the commissioners banished it to the home of art festival director Keith Reeves.

"The workmanship of the portrait is excellent," Mayor James Driver said Friday. "But it is basically not the kind of picture you would want to hang in City Hall or I would hang in my living room."

Atlanta artist Glen Eden's pen portrait of a woman working in the home-building field was voted best of show by a panel of nationally known art judges. They reviewed the more than 400 exhibits in Winter Park's sidewalk festival last month.

Music star

Josephine Baker, the St. Louis singer who reigned for decades after World War II as the darling of French music halls, died in a Paris hospital early this morning of an apparent cerebral hemorrhage. She was 68.

She was stricken Thursday, two days after opening at the Robino Music Hall in a show built around her 50 years on stage, and was rushed to the hospital unconscious. She died without regaining consciousness.

Challenge

Russian Anatoly Karpov challenged Bobby Fischer Friday to try to regain the world chess championship the American lost to Karpov by default, but only under conditions agreed to by the two contestants themselves.

Karpov said in Moscow he would not discuss any such match with U.S. Chess Federation officials.

"If Fischer personally states he would like to play, I am willing to meet him on conditions which we would agree between ourselves," Karpov said.

Karpov became world champion April 3 when Fischer refused to accept rules laid down by the International Chess Federation.

Songwriter Ira Gershwin, 78, was reported in good condition Friday at UCLA Medical Center where he underwent surgery to stop interior bleeding caused by a fractured rib.

Gershwin, brother of the late composer George Gershwin, tripped and fell in his Beverly Hills home and suffered several fractured ribs.

The Gershwin home, a showplace mansion, houses memorabilia of George Gershwin brother who died at the height of his musical brilliance in 1937 at the age of 38. Getty and Martine have an infant son, 2 months old.

Getty is now a student at Loyola University in Los Angeles.

Bomb 'a possibility' in Carib Star blast

By MIKE JELF

Staff Writer

Coast Guard investigators said Friday there was a "strong possibility" a bomb may have caused the explosion that sank the $2.5 million Catalina liner Carib Star in San Pedro Thursday night.

Half an hour before the 10:35 p.m. blast rocked the 147-foot ship at the Catalina Terminal, a caller telephoned the Independent Press-Telegram.

"There will be one less ship leaving the harbor to the Arabs," the caller told the switchboard operator, then hung up.

Two hours after the blast a man speaking with a Middle Eastern accent called again and told a reporter, "You can tell those people not to sell the steamer to the Arabs. This is just a warning."

No one was aboard the 600-passenger ship when it sank at its mooring beneath the Vincent Thomas Bridge. Fire Department Battalion Chief Ed Canfield said. In spite of efforts by firemen from two fireboats and three trucks to pump out the water, he said, the vessel sank within five minutes of their arrival.

Work to raise the ship with a 250-ton barge-mounted crane is scheduled to begin Monday.

A Coast Guard spokesman said, "We won't know for sure until the ship is raised" whether the explosion was caused by a bomb, but "there is a strong possibility it was a bomb."

Joining the Coast Guard in the investigation will be Los Angeles Police Department bomb and criminal-conspiracy investigators and federal agents.

One suspicious fact was noted by Coast Guard Lt. George Minott, who boarded the vessel after the explosion but before it had sunk. He said several hatches which should have been shut were open.

Also, a security guard at the Catalina Terminal noticed an open hatch on the ship minutes before the explosion.

Investigators said Friday that if the sinking was caused by a bomb, and if the person or persons who called the Long Beach newspapers were involved, they may have mistaken the Carib Star for the S.S. Catalina.

Both are white-hulled cruise ships, and they share neighboring moorings at the Catalina Terminal. In October, owners of the Catalina said they were negotiating to sell the Catalina to a sheik from Kuwait, but the deal later fell through.

The Carib Star and Catalina are owned by separate, but related, companies.

On Thursday night the Catalina was moored in outer Long Beach Harbor, where she was being used in the filming of a movie. Salvage crews said the Catalina's return to her home mooring may be delayed to make room for the barge which is scheduled to lift the Carib Star from the bottom.

How badly the sunken ship was damaged by Thursday's blast won't be known until she is raised. A diver boarded the ship Friday during low tide, and reported the engine room, where the blast apparently occurred, was a shambles.

A hole was blown through the deck above the engine room, but how badly the hull was damaged couldn't be determined, because the vessel lodged in four feet of mud.

Harbormaster's officers said the blast could have dislodged or blown out the petcocks in the hull, causing the craft to flood.

Another vessel will be used in the place of the Carib Star to maintain weekend passenger service between Catalina Terminal in San Pedro and Avalon, an official of Catalina Motor Cruises said Friday.

Robert Filson, president of the company which operated the Carib Star, said the 110-passenger Island Holiday, which operates out of Newport Beach during the summer, will be used as a temporary replacement.

Veterans are given priority during the first two hours, but only for the position is listed, according to an EDD spokesman. This procedure, which was begun statewide by EDD in 1973, was established in response to a presidential executive order calling for priority treatment of veterans in government and private job training and placement programs. The EDD priority system applies to all veterans, but the presidential order was issued primarily to assist Vietnam vets. Since the removal of American troops from Vietnam, the unemployment rate among veterans between the ages of 20 and 27 has been about 2 per cent higher than the jobless rate for nonveterans in the same age group. In several cases, the courts have upheld the right of government agencies to give employment preference to veterans. The 1964 Civil Rights Act prohibits job discrimination only on the basis of race, creed, sex or national origin.

On Oct. 15, 1973, I paid Frank Fitus of Royal Decor in Artesia a $177.50 deposit on a sofa which was to be custom made. And I paid him $100 as a decorating fee which was to be credited to any future purchase. Time passed and he kept putting me off about delivery but promised if he couldn't make the sofa by the beginning of this year he would refund my money. I waited and when I tried to contact him about a refund I found that he had left town. I tried to contact his partner, Wayne Goodrich of Royal Decor in Westminster, but he is never in the shop when I call and he never returns my calls. Can you help me get some action? J.S., Cerritos.

Goodrich has offered to give you credit for the $177.50 you paid as a down payment on a sofa in his shop or on one custom made, but he said he can't give you credit for the $100 you paid Fitus for decorating services. Goodrich said he was not Fitus' partner but had franchised the store to Fitus and provided him with merchandise at cost plus a service fee. He said he has sold the store Fitus operated and would also like to find him.

Slim access

When we bought a mountain cabin 15 years ago, the only access to our property and the other lots in the area was a small dirt road. At my own expense, I had the road paved when I bought the cabin and it's used by all the residents in the area. Because of a disagreement, one of our neighbors recently had his property surveyed and he claims that about 15 feet of this road is on his lot. He is threatening to put up a fence along his property line and this would narrow the road to 4 feet wide and landlock our property. Since this road has been used by the public for 15 years, can my neighbor block off part of it? I've tried to get this information from the Riverside County Road Department, but no one there could answer this question. D.B., Seal Beach.

When that area was first subdivided in 1926, the developer designated a 30-foot-wide strip as an access road for your property and the other nearby parcels, but since the county has never accepted jurisdiction over this road, enforcing the access designation is strictly up to the property owners. If you're unable to work out a settlement informally with your neighbor, your only recourse is to hire an attorney and file a civil suit against him, according to a spokesman for the Riverside County road commission. If the county board of supervisors had voted to accept the road as a public street, the county would take action against anyone who encroaches on the access route, but the supervisors generally have been unwilling to assume jurisdiction over most of the rural mountain roads because of the expense involved in maintaining them.

Two girls let out of death trap

Two 4-year-old La Mirada girls escaped certain suffocation after locking themselves in a refrigerator Friday when sheriff's deputies insisted on checking a garage a babysitter said the children would never have gone into.

Dep. Rex Miller and Sgt. William Loomis were dispatched to 15306 Oakbury Drive, La Mirada, at 3:17 p.m. when the unidentified babysitter reported Michelle Bekel, of 15318 Oakbury Drive, and Kelly Wrisley, of the 15306 address, missing.

A sheriff's spokesman said Miller and Loomis, as a matter of routine, first began to search the entire house for the children. But when they went to the garage, the babysitter told them not to bother because a German shepherd was kept inside and the girls would have been afraid to enter, the spokesman said.

Loomis looked through the garage window and saw a refrigerator inside, then insisted on investigating, the spokesman added. When Loomis opened the refrigerator, which was operating, the conscious but stunned girls fell out.

The girls were not hospitalized, the spokesman said.

Michelle's parents, Thomas, 34, and Anne, 29, said "she's not really aware about what happened, except that it was cold and dark, and she couldn't get out."

Cal. pro-abortionists planning Mass protest

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A priest at San Diego's Roman Catholic cathedral said Friday he will refuse to offer communion to Catholics planning to demonstrate Sunday against his bishop's anti-abortion order.

Several feminist groups, including the National Organization for Women, and the ad hoc Pro Abortion League, and a feminist law student group at Catholic University of San Diego, said they planned to protest or attend Mass Sunday in protest of a pastoral letter by San Diego Diocese Bishop Leo T. Maher.

Maher on Monday barred priests from administering all sacraments, but specifically communion, to all public supporters of abortion.

NOW, which has a right to choose abortion as a provision in its stated goals, was specifically mentioned in the bishop's letter.

"Anyone demonstrating for NOW, PAL or any other identifiable pro-abortionist organization will be refused the eucharist," said the Rev. Msgr. Anthony A. Giesing, rector of St. Joseph's Cathedral.

"People like that are coming here for a fight," the priest said, adding, "But you don't fight over the eucharist."

"In support of our Catholic sisters and daughters who seek to receive the sacrament of Holy Communion, the San Diego County chapter of the National Organization for Women will attend 12 o'

Public hospitals' abortion bar hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union said Friday that public hospitals cannot legally refuse to provide abortions, even if they have no staff members willing to perform the medical procedure.

Judith Mears, director of the ACLU's Reproductive Freedom Project, told Sen. Birch Bayh's Senate subcommittee on constitutional amendments that the Supreme Court's abortion ruling says the government cannot deny the right of a woman to an "elective abortion."

Mrs. Mears also said agents of the government, like public hospitals, "cannot deny that right either."

She said the ACLU fully supports individual "conscience clauses" that allow doctors or nurses to refuse to perform abortions on religious or moral grounds.

However, an institutional "conscience clause" cannot be used as justification for a public hospital to refuse to perform abortions if there are patients seeking them, she said.

Ms. Mears also argued against those who would deny federal funds, such as public health or Medicaid monies to finance abortions.

At the same time, the Navy said about 9 per cent of enlisted women suffered from problem drinking during the three-year period covered by the study.

The report found that about 8 per cent of male officers and 4 per cent of women reported experiencing at least two drinking problem incidents.

Booze troubles Navy enlistees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said Friday a survey showed enlisted men have the highest prevalence of drinking problem incidents among its sailors, with 19 per cent reporting two or more such incidents in the past three years.

"Currently, 11 per cent of all enlisted Navy men continue to evidence chronic problem drinking at a level considered to warrant remedial education or treatment programs," the Navy said.

At the same time, the Navy said about 9 per cent of enlisted women suffered from problem drinking during the three-year period covered by the study.

The survey was conducted among 9,508 officers and enlisted personnel.

These results showed up in a study conducted for the Navy last summer by a private research organization.

The Navy said the report would be used in planning more effective treatment programs.

Nearly 4,000 men and women each year are treated at Navy alcohol recovery facilities, with about 70 per cent successfully restored to duty.

In general, the study found that younger enlisted men and women and older officers experienced a higher degree of drinking problems.

Black enlisted men and women showed a problem drinking rate only half of that for comparable white groups, the Navy said.

The survey was conducted among 9,508 officers and enlisted personnel.

Unruh, 71 others bid for filing-fee refund

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California voter rolls shrunk by almost one-third after the November election and Republicans, although still the minority party, slightly increased their portion of the registered voters, the state announced Friday.

But Gov. Brown says he isn't going to ask the state for the return of his $982 filing fee.

Primarily because persons failed to vote and were "purged" from the rolls, the number of registered voters dropped 3.5 million—from 9.9 million last October to 6.4 million in January of this year.

But Republicans increased from 36 to 38 per cent of the registered voters, while Democrats remained almost static at 56 per cent. Minor party registrations and voters declining to state a party affiliation made up the remainder of the voters.

This is the highest proportion of Republican voters in the state since January of 1973.

The number of "independent" voters, those declining to express a party affiliation, declined from 6.2 per cent of the total to 4.4 per cent despite expectations from some political watchers that Watergate and other events would lead to a general dissatisfaction with party politics.

Here are the latest totals by party: Democrats 3,616,589 for 56.4 per cent of the voters; Republicans 2,464,589 for 38.4 per cent; decline to 282,137 for 4.4 per cent; American Independent 21,768 for three-tenths of one per cent; Peace and Freedom 12,851 for two-tenths of a per cent; and miscellaneous 13,339 for two-tenths of a per cent.

Beside the purging of voters who did not cast ballots in the November election, the changing figures also reflect persons who moved, switched their party affiliation or otherwise altered their voting status.

Under state law, persons who fail to vote in general elections automatically are dropped from the rolls and are mailed a postcard notification. If they have not moved, voters can return the bottom portion of the card and be reinstated.

Deadlines for returning the cards had not elapsed when the latest report was compiled, so many of the voters who were dropped could be re-registered.

Unruh is one of the 72 state politicians who have asked the State Board of Control to refund the filing fees each paid to qualify for the primary ballot last June.

Because the U.S. Supreme Court — and now the state Supreme Court — ruled filing fees unconstitutional, the Board of Control decided last month to refund the fees to anyone who paid them to the state — meaning candidates for statewide office, Board of Equalization and the Legislature.

Thus far, Unruh is the only constitutional officer who has asked to have his fees refunded, a spokeswoman for the board said. He is asking for the $700 fee he paid to qualify for state treasurer in the Democratic primary and the $211.20 he paid to qualify for a possible Assembly race to be refunded by the state.

Unruh was once the powerful speaker of the Assembly, where he was known as Big Daddy.

David Jensen, a spokesman for Brown, said the Democratic chief executive was not going to ask for his fee to be returned.

"He has said he paid the fee in good faith and would not ask for it back," Jensen said.

Refunding the fees is a major item on the Board of Control agenda for Tuesday. Karen Daniels, press secretary for Secretary of State March Fong Eu, said the board will be given a list of those who actually paid the fee so that the refund process can begin.

The refunds on the agenda Tuesday amount to more than $20,000.

Among the politicians who are asking for the filing fees back are: Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Northridge, $211.20; State Treasurer Jesse Greene, D-Sacramento, $221.20; former Assemblyman Ray Johnson, of Chico, $211.20; Assemblyman Edwin Zberg, D-Sacramento, $211.20; Sen. James Wedworth, D-Hawthorne, $982; unsuccessful U.S. Senate candidate Earl Brian, $850; and assistant state treasurer and unsuccessful candidate for treasurer Charles Haskins, $700.

Heidi in Hollywood

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Aside from Marlene Dietrich, Elke Sommer and Maria Schell, German actresses have not really captured the American fancy.

German girls usually are stereotyped as apple-cheeked milkmaids or, worse, flaxen-haired heavyweights in the Brunnhilde mold.

Fortunately, Heidi Bruhl, who stars with Clint Eastwood in "The Eiger Sanction," is neither. She is feminine in the universal interpretation of the word and could as easily be American or Estonian.

Heidi is blonde all right. She has blue eyes. Her figure is generous only where it should be.

Although she is a native of Munich, the fraulein speaks slangy American English. And now that she has moved to Hollywood the Americanization of Heidi is almost complete.

She was a Teuton in an oom-pah-pah band a dozen years ago. She starred in 40 German movies and some 300 television shows for German-speaking nations.

Her world was sauerkraut and pilsener.

"I was a hard-headed German girl," Heidi said the other day, as if there were no other kind of fraulein. "But I married an American who taught me about American humor and a different kind of man-woman relationship."

"When I got too stubborn he talked to me until I could see another side to things."

This genius is actor-writer Brett Halsey, from whom Heidi was recently separated in a fit of hard-headed pique.

"After 11 years of marriage I think in English and find English easier to speak than German," Heidi said. "But my ideas of morality and marriage are still German. I'm not going to get married again."

"Marriage ruins a perfectly good relationship. German girls understand that better than Americans."

Heidi leaves for Bavaria soon to tour in "There's a Girl in My Soup." She also appears in Germany, Holland, Austria and Switzerland in "My Fair Lady" and "Annie Get Your Gun," singing German lyrics to the familiar American scores.

"I don't want people to forget me over there just because I'm not making German pictures anymore," she explained. "They are angry at me anyway for making my home in the United States."

"On my last visit to Munich I was interviewed on television and had difficulty remembering a couple of German words. So I used English instead. The people didn't care for that at all."

"I must make amends. I love my native country. I'm still German citizen."

"But I've become accustomed to American men. There is a bit of child in all men in this country. They like to have fun. They aren't as serious as German men."

Heidi misses kraut and pilsener more than she does Hans and Wolfgang or whomever. She has a favorite butcher and grocer in Hollywood. German of course, who supply her with wurst and other delicacies not easily found in the supermarket.

"I miss many things from my past, but not my own German-ness," she said. I'm more relaxed in the United States.

"I've become a different person. And, after all, what girl needs to be hard headed?"

No-deposit cans ban urged to stem waste

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several national environmental groups urged Congress Friday to ban no-deposit, no-return cans and bottles as a first step toward digging the nation out from under billions of tons of trash.

Environmental witnesses told a House Commerce subcommittee that a beer and soft-drink container bill modeled on laws in Oregon and Vermont should be coupled with a strong national solid waste management program.

"If comprehensive reduction of wastes is to be achieved and resources conserved, both strategies must be developed together," Peters Wilson of the

Commentary

Alive and well!

By MARK CLUTTER

What is the state of religion in contemporary America? Let's look at some facts and trends.

We are inclined to think of our nation as an extremely secular society. We think we may be declining into paganism and social decadence. Some fear we are going the way of ancient Rome, Babylon, Nineveh and Tyre.

This attitude is bolstered by the popular media. We are told by newspapers, TV, movies and best sellers that we are soft, addicted to pleasure, apathetic, immoral and criminal. We are given the impression that we have little faith, less hope and no charity at all. Pessimism is the current fashion. It is smart to be masochistic.

The prophets of doom may have some of the facts, but they don't have all the facts. Many of them don't even want to look at facts.

Here are some of the facts about religion in the United States.

In 1973 the total attendance at professional and college sports events was 290 million.

In 1973 the total attendance at church was 4.4 billion.

Each week 40 per cent of the Americans attend churches and synagogues. That means 85 million people are in church each week. When one remembers that on any Sunday many church-goers are sick or on holiday or plain lazy, the total of those who go to church with some regularity must be more than half the population.

Churches are usually short of money, but in 1973 the contributions to churches and synagogues totaled $11 billion. The professionals in football, baseball and basketball had gate receipts of $221 million. Financially religion did 50 times better than the three top sports.

It is true that church attendance has declined seven per cent from the high of 1960. But it is still very high. The second half of the 20th century is probably the most religious period in American history.

WE TEND to think of the America of our ancestors as a very Christian nation. The facts won't bear this out. The founding fathers were not notably Christian. Many were influenced by the philosophies of the French. Some of them, like Washington and the Catholic Carrolls of Maryland, were church members. Washington, however, was a strange sort of Episcopalian who refused to kneel or take Communion.

The 19th century was strong on expressions of public piety, but for many religion was just middle-class respectability. The working classes were often ignored.

INDEPENDENT PRESS TELEGRAM

The pioneers usually had little opportunity for contact with religious tradition. Those who could read had Bibles. When they "got religion," it was often in the form of an ecumenical camp meeting.

Nineteenth century America was, however, highly creative in religion as in almost everything else. Many new movements were formed. Some of them are still with us in good health. Perhaps most dramatic of the new faiths was the Mormons, who struggled across the wilderness to set up their version of the City of God beside the Great Salt Lake.

There were pockets of grim puritanical sects on the frontier. Perhaps the highest praise that can be given them is for their intense belief in learning. Starting with the Word of God they emphasized books. They built schools and colleges before the sod was entirely broken and the Indians subdued.

Religion, it seems to me, reached a low ebb in the 1930s. We college students had little time for it. Churches, we felt, were all right for weddings and funerals. The academic emphasis was rationalistic and scientific. We were inclined to view the few students deeply involved in religion as eccentrics.

WHAT IS the quality of contemporary Christianity?

Well, let's consider some of the improvements since the 1920s.

In my little Kansas town were the Methodist Episcopal Church North and the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Although the last shot was fired 60 years before, those Christians did not love each other. "North of God and south of God!" my grandfather snorted.

I remember playing near the little Catholic church. A young priest in a cassock came to me, gave my hair a playful tug and said, "Whose boy are you?" I ran away. I had heard about Catholics.

In those years there spread from Dixie the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, a secret and military National Wildlife Federation told the panel.

The subcommittee is studying bills to control — and partly re-use — the 4.5 billion tons of waste generated in this country each year.

Wilson said that while beverage containers only account for about 8.8 million tons annually, they represent "the most visible and fastest-growing portion" of the nation's growing waste problem.

Arthur Purcell, a consultant for the Center for Science in the Public Interest who testified in support of the legislation, acknowledged it was a difficult question and told Florio: "No one wants to turn beverage makers into bottle washers."

He urged enactment of a bill by Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., R-N.Y., that would require a deposit on all beverage containers. The deposit would be repaid to the customer when the bottles were returned.

The bill is opposed by the container industry, segments of organized labor and by grocers who claim it would be hard to administer.

Patricia Taylor of Environmental Action called the beverage container bill the "best known and most widely understood" method of attacking the waste problem. In the long run, a more labor-intensive society will develop," he testified.

Scandal in sewage projects

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The Environmental Protection Agency said Friday it has turned up evidence of widespread mismanagement, faulty construction and misrepresentation of costs in at least 41 federal sewage plant construction grants around the country.

Millions of dollars are involved, EPA sources said, and they fear the discoveries so far might represent only a fraction of the irregularities.

Arvin L. Alm, the EPA assistant administrator for planning and management, said his agency's audit program was continuing and new regulations were being drafted to crack down on the management of federally funded sewage treatment plant construction.

ALM released a draft report covering audits conducted on 41 EPA grants for 28 sewage treatment plants in 12 states: California, Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, Washington and West Virginia.

He said the audits have turned up $13.5 million in questionable costs on projects worth a total $120.7 million — a rejection rate of 11.2 per cent of the claimed cost.

Most of the grants were to individual cities. Alm released an interim audit of two grants to the city of Stockton, Calif., and said audits for other cities would be made public soon.

LETTERS ON WAR

Disgusted

Religion Editor:

Your article "Readers, what about war?" is disgusting. I've long left the church because I saw so many church people with the so called peace movement and running in and out of Hanoi.

I wonder if all of you are so stupid as to think you are not partly responsible for what is happening to South Viet Nam today.

I have long been as outspoken against these groups as I could be. Today, I say I'm right and I'd like to see some of you people say you were wrong in the so called peace movement.

It was a movement to enslave people, nothing more.

Mrs. Helen M. Goswick
Long Beach

our own starving people. My husband and I both are now unemployed. At the unemployment office — wall to wall people, unemployment has never been so high.

Let's get some of our own problems solved. We are tired of war, war, war. Everyone's so depressed. Let's hear some good things on the news for a change.

Mrs. J. Jett
Lakewood
Methodist, Age 42

Nation under God

Religion Editor:

I dislike war, but I won't ignore the threat of worldwide dominance by Communism or any other philosophy of government.

To find out where we should go from here, read Roman 13:1-7 in the Bible. It deals with human government set up under God's leadership, and how we are to be subject to it.

Verse one says we are to be subject unto the higher powers, our government, state, and city, and their laws. Orderly government is part of God's provision for us, even in a wicked world.

Under normal conditions, we are to be obedient to our laws. This doesn't mean we are to obey laws that are immoral or anti-Christian. In such cases, we are to obey God, rather than man.

Verse two says if we resist our government, we are resisting the ordinances of God, and will be

We need to take care of judged for it.

Exodus 20:13 says, "Thou shall not kill". The greek verb "kill" indicates intentional slaying, or premeditated murder. It says nothing about defending your government. We were the defenders in South Viet Nam, not the aggressor.

I went to Viet Nam and fought. I did what my government asked of me, and what God asked of me. I have a clear conscience, and peace of mind.

Bruce Schlange, 26
Baptist
Redding

Way to peace

Religion Editor:

America and friendly nations must be prepared with the strongest Armies, Navies, and Air Forces in the world.

We must be prepared because our enemies will strike whenever they feel it is to their advantage to do so, especially if we become too weak.

Unilateral Disarmament is dangerous. Our enemies are untrustworthy and cannot be expected to keep any Disarmament Treaty or any treaty of any kind whatsoever, unless they would benefit by it. If any Treaty is drawn up and signed, we must not take it too seriously.

What Must We Do?

All Americans must be careful not to antagonize our enemies. The Newspapers, and Magazines should not publish hate columns about them.

Politicians must refrain from causing our enemies to hate us.

We must not hate our enemies.

Let them know that we are strong, and united, and ready to defend our friends and our beloved America against all enemies, foreign and domestic.

We then will have Peace.

Outreach to homosexuals

'Love, not sex, biggest need'

By MARK CLUTTER

"The biggest problem facing human beings today is not sex. It is the lack of love," said the Rev. Robert Cunningham, pastor of the Metropolitan Community Church of Long Beach, 785 Junipero Ave.

The principal outreach of the church is to homosexuals.

"When I say 'love' I mean Christian love, the love that Christ taught and lived," Rev. Cunningham said.

"This is not a gay church. This is a Christian church dedicated to helping homosexuals find Christ. The curious sometimes come to services expecting something strange and far out. They go away disappointed.

"Almost 25 percent of our people are 'straight.' We have 24 children enrolled in Sunday School. And nothing is ever done in this building what would not be acceptable in any other church.

The church is quite new here, only three years old. It has been in its new home, a white frame church with blue trim, since Aug. 1. The parent church is in Los Angeles. It is headed by the Rev. Troy Perry.

The Long Beach church has 230 members. Average attendance at Sunday worship, 11 a.m., is 150 to 175. About 75 attend the service on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

"On Sunday we are 'high church,' patterning our services on those of the Episcopalians and Lutherans," the pastor said. "On Wednesday it is more informal with singing and tambourines and fellowship.

"I never preach about homosexuality. I preach the Gospel and God's love."

But on week days, sitting in his study, homosexuality and its problems are his principal concern. He probably does more counseling than other pastors of churches of comparable size.

The Rev. Robert Cunningham

The chief problem of homosexuals, he says, is lack of love and the lack of understanding of how to love.

Gay can be very sad. "Suicide is the biggest enemy of the homosexual," Cunningham said.

"Many of them were told as teenagers that they were no good, that they were going to hell, and that there was no way to be saved.

"I was reared a Roman Catholic and was a devout and obedient son of the church. On retreat I confessed to my yearnings. The priest told me I could not take Communion until I overcame my feelings. That was the end for me.

"Many in this church have had similar experiences. The majority have good Christian backgrounds."

MEMBERSHIP includes Catholics, all kinds of Protestants and Jews. The Jews here are not numerous enough to have their own special services. In Los Angeles, however, there is a "synagogue" connected with the Metropolitan Community Church.

"We try to show homosexuals how to live in the world and be part of the general society. We counsel against outrageous behavior, exhibitionism and public acts in restrooms and cars. We teach that sex belongs in the bedroom.

"Many young males have a compulsion to try their luck more and more recklessly until they are caught and disaster results. We try to guide them away from such tragedy."

"And we try to heal their bitterness toward the churches that rejected them. Some do go home again."

The church conducts a mission to 19 prisoners at Terminal Island. "I tell them that they are there because of their own actions and that there must be no playing around in prison."

One of them, Francis Williamson, has turned jailhouse lawyer and has written literate letters to a senator and other officials protesting that his religious liberty has been infringed because he can not get Sunday passes to attend the Long Beach church.

Some persons have such crashing problems that all Cunningham can do is refer them to the proper therapy.

AND SOME homosexuals are not really homosexuals. He told of a pretty young woman with great emotional problems. As a bride she suffered sexual anguish and decided that she must be a lesbian. She left her small city for Los Angeles County, "where the action is." A variety of adventures left her more miserable than before.

"As I talked to her I realized that there was something different about her," the pastor said. "I learned her secret. She was still in love with her husband. I told her to go home and play charming but hard to get.

"Two years later I received a letter. She thanked me for saving her life. She has a baby and is happily in love with her husband."

Cunningham is a late comer to the ministry. He was for 23 years with a Federal Reserve Bank branch, the last years as personnel manager, an experience which he says was invaluable to him as a minister. He was ordained four years ago by Rev. Perry.

"We do not preach that gay is good. We preach that Christ is good and that his message is for all humanity."

The social attitudes against homosexuals are becoming less intense, he said. People are beginning to realize that the stereotypes are not necessarily true.

"You have heard, of course, that male and female homosexuals do not like each other," he said. "That is a stereotype. Our congregation is half male and half female. They are good friends."

"Recently I performed a wedding for a male homosexual and a female homosexual. I have no idea how they have worked things out, but they seem to be happy and in love."

St. Anthony

Fund campaign for scholars

By MARK CLUTTER

Prestigious St. Anthony High School, which during its 55 years has always ranked among the very best private high schools in California, is conducting a $500,000 fund drive to further enhance its academic program.

"Two thirds of this money will be used for scholarships for real Christian educations in colleges," said Msgr. Ernest Gualderon, pastor of St. Anthony's Church and director of the school. "The rest will be used for improvement of laboratories, girls' athletic facilities, library equipment, modern techniques in home economics and language and minor improvements of the plant."

The campaign opened with a mail appeal to the more than 7,000 alumni. "We will make an appeal to the entire community because St. Anthony's has served the Long Beach area well," Msgr. Gualderon said. "And we hope to gain substantial support from business and industry."

St. Anthony has approximately 800 students. Eighty-five per cent of the graduates go on to college. This is much higher than the percentage for most public high schools.

In the Long Beach Unified School District 76 per cent of the girls and 68 per cent of the boys went on to more education.

"This is a college preparatory school," Msgr. Gualderon said. "We have a full athletic program, but the emphasis is on the academic. The girls' athletic program needs improvement."

St. Anthony is not a closed school for select, hand-picked young Catholics. Rather, it is a school for the entire community. Its appeal is to those parents and children who want good academic educations with Christian emphasis, the monsignor said. Seventy Protestants are enrolled.

The proportion of faculty to students is about one to 16. Twenty-five teachers are professional religious brothers and sisters.

Twenty-four are lay teachers.

300 Vietnam orphans due in L.B. today

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

Government officials early today were gearing for the expected arrival of up to 300 Vietnamese orphans on a World Airways 747 jet scheduled to land at Los Angeles International Airport at 12:30 p.m.

Additionally, officials indicated they were expecting four other plane-loads of orphans and evacuees on military aircraft to arrive either later today or sometime Sunday.

The number of people aboard these flights and the arrival times were not known late Friday.

Supervisor James Hayes, who is helping to coordinate arrangements for handling of the orphans, said health inspectors and doctors would board the World Airways plane as soon as it arrives to determine if any of the children need to be taken to hospitals for treatment.

He said it was found that about 10 per cent of the orphans who arrived in San Francisco in the past week needed some form of hospitalization. Those who do not need medical care will be taken to the Long Beach Naval Support Station staging area where a gymnasium has been set up to house the orphans.

The supervisor said all county hospitals have been placed on standby to help in the treatment of the children. He said four private hospitals, including the Little Company of Mary Hospital in Torrance and St. Medical Center in Long Beach, also have agreed to supply bed space if county facilities cannot assume the full load.

The supervisor said that about 5,000 persons have volunteered the use of their homes for the orphans and that another 400 persons have been cleared as adoptive parents and will be given priority in the adoption process.

Strict security measures have been put in at the airport and Naval Station to prevent what Hayes termed "the chaos" that developed with the arrival of the first lot of youngsters in San Francisco.

He said arrangements were being made to ship large numbers of diapers to the Long Beach Naval Station, noting that 3,000 diapers at the San Francisco take-in center were "used up in no time at all."

cent strategic defeats of the Thieu puppet troops," the broadcast said.

Eight big U.S. Air Force C141 Starlifter jet transports landed at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airbase Friday, carrying tons of military and other equipment for South Vietnamese troops under the emergency American supply airlift.

When the planes flew out during the afternoon, some carried orphans bound for new homes in the U.S. and American civilians pulling out because of the Communist threat to Saigon.

The American radio in Saigon broadcast announcements to U.S. citizens informing them of the flights and urging them to report to Tan Son Nhut.

The Americans were required to have all immigration papers in order before they could get aboard the aircraft bound for Travis Air Force base in California. For civilian contractors employed by the Defense Attaché's Office, the price of a one-way ticket to the West Coast was $288.

Nearly 300 orphans left Saigon Friday en route to new homes in the United States.

'Not one more American life'

BERKELEY (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Friday urged President Ford to pursue diplomatic means to end the fighting in Vietnam and said: "The tragedy in Vietnam is not worth the loss of one more American life."

Kennedy, speaking to a Charter Day audience at the University of California, warned against the danger of evacuations under American military cover and said he "disagreed profoundly" with further military aid for South Vietnam.

"Let us understand that the tragedy in Vietnam is not worth the loss of one more American life," he said. "Nothing that could happen in Indochina is a basic threat to the United States."

"The time has come for America to end its long and tragic pursuit of the phantom of military victory in Vietnam. More millions of dollars can only prolong the bloodshed and agony of innocent victims of war."

Machinists vote on ending strike at Douglas today

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

Thousands of Southern California machinists, facing perhaps the most crucial decision of their lengthy dispute with McDonnell Douglas Corp., are expected to jam the Los Angeles Sports Arena today to decide the fate of their nine-week strike against the giant aerospace firm.

For the machinists—

many of whom are financially up against the wall after two months on the picket lines and $40 a week in strike benefits, the decision won't be an easy one, their leaders agreed Friday.

Machinists' officials, in fact, said they fully expect the vote to be much closer than at any previous time in the dispute, during which the union has invariably taken a tough stand against the company's contract offers.

They also conceded that the latest offer—which was presented to the union as a set of recommendations by the Federal Mediation Service—falls short of their expectations.

As Cummings summed it up, "We got what the United Auto Workers got (from the company), but we paid more for it."

There seems to be little question in their minds that McDonnell Douglas' management is intent—if not on breaking the union—then beating it into submission. And their willingness to accept the contract offer is tantamount to an admission that there is nothing to be gained by staying out any longer.

In the view of the leadership, the strikers neither won the battle nor lost it, but emerged with a compromise, as union spokesman John Cummings put it.

Whether the strikers won or lost, though, the Secret Soviet bid to Israel on peace told

United Press International

Two Soviets emissaries met with Israeli leaders secretly last week and offered to guarantee Israel's security if it gives up the territory captured in the 1967 Six-Day war, an Israeli newspaper reported Friday.

The newspaper Ha'aretz said two Soviet representatives met with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Foreign Minister Yigal Allon as a preliminary step toward a new session of Middle East peace talks in Geneva.

"The main subject in the Soviet-Israeli contacts were the positions of Israel and the Soviet Union toward the possibility of a Geneva conference," the newspaper said.

The two Soviet envoys were not identified, but Ha'aretz said they were "not officials but personalists who are close to the Kremlin."

Israeli officials would not make any immediate comment on the report.

Ha'aretz said the Soviet envoys had asked Israel's agreement to seek an overall Middle East peace settlement at Geneva and assured the Israeli leaders that if Israel returned to the borders it held before the 1967 Six Day war, Moscow would guarantee these frontiers.

The Soviets also said they would resume diplomatic relations with Israel after a Geneva agreement, Ha'aretz said. Moscow broke off relations with Israel following the 1967 war.

The Israeli officials evidently told the Soviets they would insist on a wide-scale peace agreement and changes in the pre-1967 borders, the newspaper said.

95 poison-spill victims recover

Associated Press

Ninety-five persons were treated for poisoning after a newly developed insecticide spilled from an overturned truck in Los Angeles and was turned to toxic fumes by water from firemen's hoses, officials said Friday.

The firemen, who had never heard of the substance, doused the flaming wreckage late Thursday night, not realizing they were dealing with a dangerous chemical that reacted with water, said a Highway Patrol spokesman.

The mediators' package comes down to what the UAW received in its contract without striking the company: a 3 per cent wage hike for each of three years, and about 12 cents in retroactive cost-of-living benefits on top of the first-year wage hike.

Also a plan that calls for pensions to be computed on the basis of $9 a month for every year an employee worked prior to 1975, and $10 a month for every year he works from 1975 on.

The other victims, including freeway motorists near the scene, were treated and released at several hospitals for the effects of the acid chemical which included blurred vision, nausea, reduced pulse and shortness of breath.

Those hospitalized were given intravenous treatments of an antidote to the insecticide. All were expected to recover fully, said a hospital spokesman.

The 9:30 p.m. accident occurred at the junction of the busy Hollywood and Golden State freeways when the truck carrying 12,000 five-gallon cans of the powdery substance collided with another truck carrying rubber tires. Both vehicles erupted into flames, but the drivers escaped injury.

'Like a World Series'

Homers ruin Catfish debut

Combined News Services

"I was a little bit nervous out there; I was pressuring a little bit too much," Catfish Hunter, baseball's richest player, explained Friday after boozing home runs by Willie Horton and Nate Colton ruined his New York debut and powered the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory in the Yankees' home opener.

Hunter pitched in seven World Series games, seven playoff contests and four All-Star games with the Kansas City and Oakland A's, but an enthusiastic

AMERICAN

Shea Stadium crowd of 26,212 and dozens of media people shook him up Friday.

"It seemed like a World Series," he said. "I never saw this many writers in Oakland, even during the World Series. I had a pretty good fast ball, but I might have been trying to make my breaking ball break too much. I couldn't control it. Every time I threw it, it either broke too much or not enough."

The 1974 Cy Young Award-winner, who won 88 games for Oakland over the past four seasons, fell victim to a old bugaboo, the long ball. Even while Carl Yastrzemski's 12th-inning home run enabled Boston to ruin Baltimore's home opener, 6-5, Rick Burleson and Tony Conigliaro also homered for the Red Sox, while Paul Blair collected three hits for the Orioles. The largest opening day crowd in eight years—38,665—attended the contest.

Hank Aaron collected his first AL hit, a sixth-inning single, and John Briggs ignited a five-run explosion with a towering homer as Milwaukee pounded Cleveland, 6-2.

Five singles, the last by Richie Hebner, and a walk enabled Pittsburgh to rally for four ninth-inning runs and beat the New York Mets, 4-3.

Montreal outfielder Gary Carter fell after making a running catch of Pete LaCock's long fly ball and Rick Monday scored from second base as Chicago nuked the Expos, 2-1.

Bake McBride had four hits, including a three-run, inside-the-park home run, and drove in four runs as St. Louis disappointed 44,834 Philadelphia fans by pounding the Phillies, 6-3.

Buzz Capra, who led two runs as the host Padres shocked the Reds, 5-2, for their first victory of the season.

San Diego scored all the runs it needed in the first inning when Hernandez doubled, Bobby Tolan bunted for a base hit, John Grubb singled and Winfield blasted a two-run double, completing the three-run explosion.

Westminster Mall getting new stores

Buffums'

Buffums' Westminster makes it an even dozen when the doors open on the store No. 12, Monday at 10 A.M.

The new two-level store with entrances on both levels of the Mall, containing 90,000 gross square feet, is another of the chain's Boutique Department Stores providing fashions and accessories for men and women and children as well as silver, china, gifts, bed and bath shops and gourmet housewares.

The interior of the store offers an inviting view of individual departments that create their own unique atmosphere through personalized floor coverings, wall decor and lighting. The total effect is one of open airiness, with spacious aisles leading from one department to another.

BUFFUMS' Westminster invites customers to "please touch the merchandise," through inviting boutique arrangements of fine furniture pieces — both domestic and rare imports — with merchandise attractively displayed and accessorized to provide complete fashion news for customers.

Buffums uses no mannequins and few fixtures, the total effect is one of a natural home-like setting where fabrics can be seen against backgrounds of various colorations. Customers will also discover that the furniture and decorative accessories are price-tagged as well.

The Country Barn Restaurant on the upper level provides a welcome departure from the usual department store teamroom. From the inviting entry way framed in imported Portuguese tiles, the customer is greeted by the warm and lively atmosphere of a real barn — all polished to perfection.

ANTIQUED wooden beams, used brick, and stained glass partitions. A real fireplace with double opening — one in the main dining room, the other in a smaller room called the Quilt Room where cocktails will be served. It will offer an outstanding menu with country style specialties of the house.

Buffums' Westminster Store Manager is Robert Leidler; Mr. Leidler formerly managed Buffums in Pomona.

Architects for Buffums' Westminster are Killingsworth, Brady, and Associates; contractor, Ernest W. Hahn; interior designers, Chaix and Johnson Associates.

Robinson's

The 14th Robinson's Store in Southern California opens Monday as an integral part of the Westminster Mall. It was two years in planning and construction, James B. Slayden, president, said Friday.

Ever since the original store opened in Los Angeles as Boston Dry Goods, Robinson's has been young and progressive, pioneering in service, fashion and value.

Robinson's Westminster was designed to adapt to and serve the community informally but with a vibrant character.

The themes throughout the store are Town and Country with the emphasis on Country. In Westminster, the Country Look is a union of elegance and ease.

THE DESIGN of the building reflects California Spanish Architecture in a crisp, warm and friendly way.

On the lower level, you see the multi-level design element that carries the eye up through the escalator well making the viewer conscious of all three levels. This placement of the glass elevator between the escalators is a trade mark.

THE MASCULINE character of the men's area is established through the generous use of wide massive beam ceilings with the color of raw woods contrasting with rough textured fabrics.

The theme of the entire floor is established by ceiling motif in the center — this feature imprints the Robinson's "R" as the most important decorative element of the store. The classic recessed ceiling covers a large part of the central floor. In its center are four huge hand sculptured "Rs", each measuring 10 feet.

The restaurant floor plan provides three separate dining areas surrounded by arched brick wall reminiscent of a vaulted wine cellar.

DENNIS BARNETT has been appointed general manager. A graduate of Brigham Young University, he went on to graduate work at USC before joining Robinson's in September 1965.

Barnett was assistant manager in Newport Beach for two years and general manager in Anaheim for three.

Slayden said, "We think Robinson's Westminster is an outstanding example of innovative department store planning, incorporating new ideas in energy with contemporary design technique."

Industry Week

Steel buying revival

CLEVELAND — The first signs of a revival in steel buying are being seen, Industry Week reported Friday.

Orders for May and June delivery of steel sheets to the automobile industry are larger than steel sales executives had expected, and appliance makers are becoming bullish on their business prospects and are increasing their steel orders for May and June delivery around 50 per cent over orders for April delivery.

One steel company said the orders for May delivery include the best purchase that General Motors Corp. has made in five months and that the steel probably would go into the 1976 models.

The rise in steel orders for May and June delivery are consonant with forecasts by the auto industry that its business will pick up in the third and fourth quarters of this year, Industry Week pointed out.

REFLECTING THE outlook for strengthened demand for steel and an improvement in the coke supply, U.S. Steel Corp.'s Ohio Works at Youngstown has put an additional blast furnace into operation to supply molten iron for steelmaking furnaces.

Steel companies generally are quite optimistic about the outlook for steel demand, once the swollen inventories of their customers are worked off. Liquidation of steel inventories is expected to be in high gear in the U.S. this month. Helping hasten the liquidation is a continuation of a high rate of consumption. It's estimated that usage has declined only 5 per cent from levels of the last several months, Industry Week reported.

Dr. Philip H. Abelson, president of the scientific research organization since 1971, said energy problems will agitate Americans for more than a decade before any meaningful sources other than oil and coal can be discovered.

HE SAID environmentalists and government bureaucracy have acted to impede scientific exploration that will develop energy resources that are alternatives to natural gas and oil.

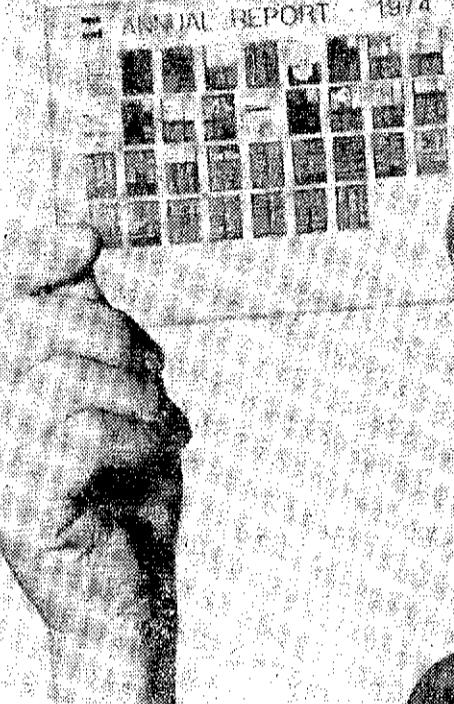

In the next decade, the energy crisis will be joined by crises of raw materials, population and food, Abelson said, and the solutions to these problems are not immediately at hand either.

It will be found, Abelson said, that a crucial component in meeting these problems is to utilize knowledge more effectively.

He said President Ford's proposals to rely heavily on higher prices to curb energy consumption will provide only a short term answer because price increases for oil and electric power in the past year have damped consumer demand only slightly.

J. (Jack) Clark of Long Beach, a sales representative for NN Dataforms, has been honored with the Distinguished Salesman's Award by the L.A. Sales and Marketing Executives Association.

His special trophy, called a "Sammy," was for outstanding sales achievements in the past year.

SOMEDAY YOUR NEWSPAPER will look like this — a 4x6 inch piece of film called microfiche. Raymond J. Wilcox, GAF Corp. vice president is examining a microfiche in New York that contains GAF's 36-page annual report with room to spare. A microfiche can contain 98 letter-size pages, and something called an ultrafiche can hold 8,000 pages! "The time is not far off when you'll buy newspapers, magazines and books on microfiche at your newsstand. Portable microviewers will be as common as portable radios," Wilcox said.

Scientific research needed for energy

By LEONARD CURRY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientific research of the priority enjoyed during the Apollo space project of the 1960s is needed to solve the nation's energy crisis and other problems that will arise in the next decade, according to the head of the Carnegie Institution.

It will be pure "Vintage Bradbury" recapping our day in the future and offering his unique points-of-view about man and his universe in line with this year's theme, "Future Nostalgia"—the drive to design what will happen next and the ways to profit from it.

BRADBURY is noted for such works as The Martian Chronicles and his play, based on the novel and laid in the year 1999, has been successfully touring the medieval castles of France this past year.

He recently finished a screenplay of his book Something Wicked This Way Comes to be filmed by Sam Peckinpah this fall and a new hardcover edition of his novel Dandelion Wine has just been published. The writer is sure to add a special sort of sanity to our program and the business relevance will amaze you.

"The Forecasters", three super-pros who know what it's all about, will keynote the program with their knowledge of such subjects as "Consumer in Transit," "Compelling Graphics" and "Message Merchandising."

THE ALL-DAY seminar will also include panel discussions with such notables as Barbara Stewart and Dick Turpin on advertising-publicity; sales displays with Chuck Crockett, Ron Sasse and Zoran Vidanovic; specialists Pamela Ayers, John Cottrell and Carole Eichen on interior design; and landscaping with Bob Cardoza, Sid Galper, Courtland Paul and Frank Radmacher.

Mark Friday, May 9 on your calendar and reserve your "Day in the Future" today with Edie at the Sales and Marketing Council. SMC members are entitled to a special discount and reservations are limited due to forum seating arrangements. Call now for your place at the seminar.

cause the oil embargo was so brief, he said, Americans did not comprehend fully how important energy is to our existence and way of life and were not sufficiently motivated to take action needed to meet the long-range problems.

"TODAY, WHAT basically sets us apart from less fortunate people is the ability of the average individual to acquire and to use the equivalent of 10 kilowatts of power," he said.

However, Abelson said, the United States is "coming to the end of a joyride based on petroleum." The economy will be severely handicapped for the next five years by a decline in the nation's ability to produce oil and natural gas, he said.

The Carnegie president, a pioneer of atomic energy research, has spent more than a decade studying the processes by which oil is created in nature and various ways of extracting oil from shale.

Solar and nuclear energy hold some promise of easing the problems in the future, Abelson said, "but for at least 15 years our economy and way of life will be crucially dependent on hydrocarbons, especially oil."

For the short run, he said, the United States must increase coal production and conversion of coal into oil. He also proposes increased extraction of oil from shale, but that will require guarantees that costly oil derived from shale will not be undercut by foreign oil producers.

Abelson said scientific research is fragmented and has been since President Nixon removed it from its priority position two years ago.

"President Ford is now in closer contact with Dr. (H. Guyford) Stever, the science adviser, but the scientific community has reservations concerning the effectiveness of the present arrangement. It is hoped President Ford will find ways of better utilizing the enormous scientific and technological potentials of this country," Abelson said.

Ah, 'tis the season of spring

Timmy Couch, 4, revels in the scent of the season Friday as he gathers up a bouquet of daisies for his mother. The barefoot lad found the sea of flowers at the foot of Junipero Avenue, just as it winds down to the beach. Weathermen, meanwhile, guessed that last week's flower-nurturing rains are over, but the Southland can expect some slight drizzles this morning with skies turning fair in the afternoon under a high of 65-degrees.

TAKE THE PLUNGE, BE A LIFEGUARD

Persons interested in summer jobs as Long Beach lifeguards can take qualification tests Saturday, May 3, at 9 a.m. in the ocean and on the beach near lifeguard headquarters at the foot of Cherry Avenue.

The positions are open to both sexes, 18 or older, according to Supt. Richard Miller of the Marine Safety Operations division.

The tests will consist of a 1,000-yard ocean swim and an 800-yard run-swim-run, Miller said.

Based on their scores, approximately 20 candidates will be selected for the 56-hour cadet training program, the lifeguard chief said.

The vacant lifeguard posts will be filled from those who complete the training program successfully, he said.

Starting salary for the lifeguard jobs is $4.63 an hour.

Alaska crews bolt at home hazards

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

When outside temperatures drop to a minus 80 degrees, even the small bolts in the walls conduct the outdoor chill inside modular homes which house workers on the Alaska pipeline.

For companies in Los Angeles Harbor, which are building wheelless mobile homes for the Arctic Circle construction crews, this is just one of the hazards: bolts in the units reach through the insulated walls from outside to inside, carrying cold inside and intensifying heating problems of dormitories and homes.

To keep the chill out and the heat in, the prefabricated structures must have double glass windows, extra thick ceiling and wall insulation, and roofs capable of supporting snow up to 15 feet high. They are built to withstand winds up to 100 miles per hour.

Two different styles of housing units are currently being shipped through the Indies Terminal in Los Angeles Harbor on barges which are towed to Alaska. Most of the units to be shipped will be 10-foot by 50-foot modulars. They are to be built in clusters of 16 which are arranged four long, two wide, and stacked two high.

The modulars manufactured by Alberta Trailer Co. (ATCO) are used as living quarters, recreational facilities, movie theaters, hospitals, cafeterias and mess halls.

Another style, resembling conventional mobilehomes, but without any wheels, will be occupied by the pumping station operators and maintenance crews working on the pipeline after its completion. The homes, some with three bedrooms, have full kitchens, bath tubs, showers, wall-to-wall carpeting and are completely furnished.

There will be approximately 170 of the mobile home-type structures in Alaska by the time the 800 pipeline is completed in late 1977. The 24-foot by 64-foot models are constructed in Phoenix by Shardon Mobilehome Builders. The homes are built in two 12-foot wide sections and are shipped on flatbed trucks from Arizona to the harbor. Upon arrival in port two 120-foot cranes are used to lift the homes off the trucks and onto barges.

Planners told impact data a 'guide' only

An environmental impact report, under the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), is only a guide to decision-making bodies and not the final word on approval or disapproval, the Long Beach Planning Commission has been told.

Deputy City Atty. Arthur Honda discussed aspects of the state law this week at the request of commissioners.

Honda told the commission the CEQA describes an environmental impact report as an "informational document" intended to inform both decision-making bodies and the public of environmental effects of proposed projects.

"AN EIR may not be used as an instrument to rationalize approval of a project, nor do indications of adverse impact, as enunciated in an EIR, require that a project be disapproved," Honda said, reading from the act.

Pastor works to heal racial wounds

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

The Rev. Hugh David Burcham, pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church, was virtually the only member of his family to "go astray," as he puts it.

His father, David I. Burcham, was perhaps the most revered educator in Long Beach. The elder Burcham was principal of Poly High from 1907 to 1941. Burcham School in Long Beach bears his name.

His mother taught school in the state of Washington before her marriage.

One of his sisters taught in Long Beach in the 1930s but lost her job during the Depression when a regulation was put in effect that only one member of a family could work in the school system.

His other sister is a retired teacher who is volunteering her time as a counselor for Glendale Community College.

Burcham's wife, Esther, is a teacher in the Unified School District's pre-school program.

Of his four children, three were trained as teachers.

One daughter taught in Los Angeles, married the assistant principal of Palos Verdes High School and now teaches part-time in that school district.

His son, David, teaches at Wilson High School.

Burcham, however, "strayed" into the ministry. But ever since he returned to Long Beach in 1964 to become pastor of Covenant Presbyterian, he's been interested in "standing for the Board of Education."

He stood so well that he won endorsement from the Teachers Association of Long Beach and unofficial backing from most administrators in the school district.

There's been so much feuding between administrators and teachers in recent years that getting the nod from both sides is as unusual as winning approval of both President Ford and Congress.

In fact, it's that long-standing feud between teachers and administrators that Burcham views as one of the school district's most serious problems. He hopes he can do something about that.

"If I bring anything to the school board, I bring some background of being a harmonizer," he said. "I would like to bring together administrators and teachers in a more effective working force."

The pastor has good credentials as a harmonizer.

After Long Beach had its own mini-Watts disturbances in its "black ghetto" in 1965, Burcham initiated exchange programs between his church and St. John Baptist Church in the central district.

He's also been active in a number of other projects aimed at racial harmony, such as Operation Head Start and the Community Improvement League.

When the affable minister talks about racial problems in the school district, he sometimes uses the word "healing" to describe his goal.

He sees the Board of Education as a body that should try to reconcile differences among teachers, administrators and other employee groups.

"In most places, including Long Beach, the image is that the board and the central administration are in the same camp and opposed to the teachers. I hope that I never fall into that kind of image."

"We have to work closely with the administration. We look to them to bring to the board issues of policy and finance that we want to consider, so there has to be a close working relationship."

But Burcham said he has told TABL officials that he also intends to spend time discussing issues with them and to visit schools and talk personally to teachers.

"I want to personify the neutrality and objectivity of a board member who's trying to do justice on both sides," he said.

Because board members are elected to be impartial arbiters of school system disputes, Burcham said he is opposed to both mandatory outside arbitration of salary disputes and to teacher strikes.

On other issues, the new school board member:

—Supports the school district's voluntary transfer program in which youngsters can attend schools outside their neighborhoods if it will increase racial balance. But he said he has misgivings about one part of the program in which new black students are required to go to suburban schools to increase racial balance.

—Says he'll speak out if "issues are being discussed in the board's executive sessions that ought better be discussed in open." Some candidates said during the campaign that they believed that the school board had been discussing some non-personnel issues in secret sessions.

—Expresses concern that there is mounting public desire for more job-oriented schooling, but that it not eclipse education in the social sciences and humanities.

Burcham said he hasn't been a faddist for "the extreme progressive movements in education," but is interested in new experiments that will heighten students' interest in their schoolwork.

"I'm open to experimental things that we can do to stimulate interest," he said.

REV. H.D. BURCHAM*Steamer dock hassle rebounds to council

The tricky problem of what to do about the S.S. Catalina was thrown back to the Harbor Commission by the Los Angeles City Council Friday, with a recommendation that commissioners work out a deal to charge steamship operators reduced dockage fees.

On Wednesday commissioners passed the matter on to the council, asking for further "guidance" about what to do with the financially floundering steamship's dockage payments.

Three weeks before that the council had asked the commission to reduce the steamer's dockage fee, but an assistant city attorney told commissioners that if they did that, they could be sued by competitors, other port tenants, officials of other ports or other individuals.

Another legal point that concerned commissioners, one they passed on to the councilmen Wednesday, is that any special rate which violates the port tariff (fee schedule) without a lawful agreement would be against city and possibly against federal laws.

Operators of the Catalina, which usually sails on the 27-mile run between Avalon and San Pedro during the summer, have said they won't be able to run the ship this summer if past dockage claims aren't forgiven.

Owners of the steamship and the harbor department have negotiated for six weeks about a $91,000 debt various Catalina transportation lines owe the city.

At one point Carolyn Megargee, president of Catalina Transportation Co., which owns the vessel, asked the Harbor Department to forgive $11,000 in unpaid dockage charges for the last quarter of 1974.

However Jack L. Wells, senior assistant city attorney, told harbor commissioners they couldn't legally rebate any fees already owed.

Stan Megargee, public relations man for the steamship, said its owners have lined up a $100,000 loan from Farmers and Merchants Bank for operating capital. However, the loan will only be granted if the operators work out an agreement with the Harbor Department, he said.

The motion councilmen passed Friday on a 9-2 vote asks the commission to give the steamship a reduced dockage rate over a 90-day period.

Nearly two hours of discussion and bickering preceded the vote. At one point Council President John S. Gibson, who represents the harbor area, blasted the Harbor Commission as having a "weak backbone" for passing the matter back to the council.

After the vote Harbor Department General Manager Fred Crawford said he will give a new dockage proposal to commissioners next week.

However, he and Harbor Commission President Frederick Heim warned it would be hard to justify special treatment for the Catalina.

"It could, in effect, open up a considerable snake pit in terms of leaving the city of Los Angeles open to various kind of suits for discriminatory pricing," Heim said.

For community developmentAdvisers upgrading eyed

The Long Beach City Council will be asked Tuesday to reorganize the 15-member Citizens Advisory Committee for Community Improvement. The reorganization is expected to provide a slightly different base for representation and an elevation to commission status.

The committee, which two months ago was asked by the City Council to continue to represent Long Beach citizens and work with the city in the administration of federal "block-grant" funds, suggested it be renamed the Community Development Advisory Commission.

Rabbi Sidney Guthman, chairman, pointed out that the committee works closely with the city's Department of Community Development.

The committee suggested restructuring its membership by establishing seven categories, with two members to be appointed from each category, and with one member-at-large. The seven categories, and groups which might be involved, are:

Housing — Representatives from the League of Women Voters, American Institute of Architects, Apartment House Association and consumer groups.

Redevelopment — Representatives of the construction industry, real estate and various project area committees.

Social Services — Representatives from the religious community or organizations which "might normally assist in neighborhood facility center operation."

Business and Industry — Representatives from business, industry and economic development.

Minority — Representatives of ethnic groups.

Low Income — Representatives from organizations serving low-income people, elderly, or individuals representing low-income or elderly residents.

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have a rare chance to convert the useless into something of value. You can also redirect your course to greater productivity by quiet decisions made now.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Give yourself a break. Leave business considerations aside; see about friendship for its own sake. Take your full share in local observances of faith and civic cooperation.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You have a quiet opportunity to think where you're going and whom to go with — choices begin now, unannounced. Be willing to put your energy behind group and family projects.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Be out and about. There are many conflicting details to sort out before you start to explain anything. It's an uneven day — make it as smooth as you can.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Once you've played your usual role in the customs of your community, relax, catch up on hobbies. Take a rest from the work you've been pushing. No shopping!

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): A conservative approach works best this Sunday. By all means, avoid noise and unusual activity. Check your home for security; plan needed corrections.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You have such a busy, complex week ahead that it's best to get in plenty of extra rest. Be content with normal amenities; participate in public observances gracefully.

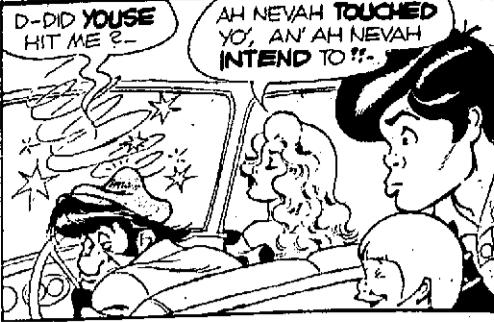

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Boredom is a signal of something going wrong within. Don't just "do something" to stir up action. Strive to become a person too alive to be bored.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): This is a good day to run a double schedule: rest and load — then put in enough effort to complete neglected routines. Then take another break.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be wherever you feel your presence is needed most and where it appears you can gain by contributing. Strive for genuine elegance of appearance and behavior today.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Your energy is up a bit; likewise there is a temptation to be a busybody. If you can leave well enough alone, you'll benefit later. A complicated but fun day.

Brown seen signing NOx-device repeal

From Our L.A. Bureau

State Sen. Nate Holden, D-Los Angeles, said Friday he is confident Gov. Brown will sign a bill repealing the law requiring owners of 1966-70 cars in the South Coast Air Basin to fit nitrogen oxide (NOx) devices to their cars.

Holden made the prediction at a press conference in Supervisor Kenneth Hahn's office on the basis of a phone call he received from A. Thomas Quinn, chairman of the State Air Resources Board, who had been strongly opposed to the repeal.

"Quinn indicated to me he was not going to pursue this matter any further and congratulated me on a well deserved victory in getting the Assembly Thursday to vote 54-25 to repeal the law," Holden told reporters.

"From this conversation I got the impression that Quinn would not ask Gov. Brown to veto the bill."

However, Holden and Hahn urged motorists as "an insurance policy" to continue sending post-cards and letters to Brown urging him to sign the repealer when it hits his desk.

The repeal bill is expected to go before the Senate Monday. Although a bill repealing the law initially passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, it was amended slightly before the Assembly vote and therefore has to go back to the upper house for reconsideration.

Holden, however, said he expects no trouble in the Senate.

Hahn and Holden suggested the governor would not want a confrontation to occur by vetoing the bill since the repeal measure did attract a two-thirds majority vote in both houses.

Holden told reporters there was a "strong feeling" in the Legislature to make some kind of compensation to those motorists who have already fitted the NOx devices at an average cost of $35 each. But, he said, he was not sure at this time exactly what action would be taken on the matter.

Brown said Friday he will decide "very, very quickly" whether to sign or veto the NOx bill.

But the Democratic governor again refused to say which way he is leaning on the controversial bill.

Brown said he has agreed to meet with Hahn and that he is reviewing staff reports.

Top Brown aides other than Quinn are reported to favor a veto of the NOx bill.

The bill will reach Brown's desk after the final vote, viewed as a formality, in the Senate.
